Things to Consider

- GPA and completion rate can impact future college admissions and financial aid eligibility
- Dropping a course is an option if you are struggling in the course
- Oregon Promise covers 90 credits which includes College Now credits earned in high school

A photograph of two young women on a college campus. One woman is seated in a black motorized wheelchair, wearing a light blue and white striped long-sleeved shirt and blue jeans. She is smiling and gesturing with her hands. The other woman is standing next to her, wearing a black and white patterned t-shirt and blue jeans, also smiling. They are on a paved walkway with a black metal railing. In the background, there are lush green trees and a large tree trunk on the left. The scene is brightly lit, suggesting a sunny day.

What Should I Do If I'm Not Doing Well In The Course?

Dropping or withdrawing from a course is always an option if you are struggling in the course.

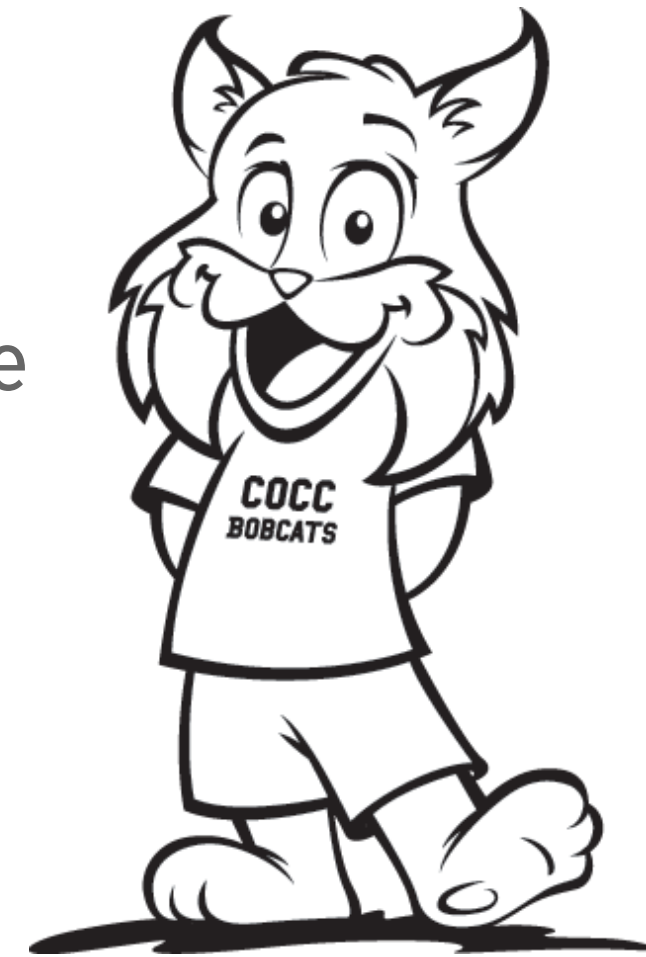

- Dropping a course by the drop deadline: No grade will show on your COCC transcript. A refund of the College Now course fee will be issued.
- Dropping a course by the withdraw deadline: A "W" will show on your COCC transcript. There is no refund when withdrawing from a College Now course.

What Happens After I Finish My College Now Course?

- COCC issues a grade and the grade is recorded on your COCC transcript
- View your grades, print an unofficial transcript or request an official transcript
- Credits earned through College Now are regular COCC credits which are transferable to many community colleges, colleges and universities
